

Mastermath privacy

This document describes the way information is collected and used by Mastermath in the learning management system (LMS, also known as the “ELO”).

What data is collected?

We collect the following data about students in the Mastermath LMS:

- Basic profile data that you provide when registering an account: name, email address and student number.
- Information about the content you interact with or upload into the system, such as courses you enrol for or assignments you submit.
- If you follow courses in the Mastermath programme, lecturers may enter partial or final grades into the system, linked to your user account.

How we use your information

We use your data only to provide you access to course information and to allow Mastermath courses to be administered within the LMS. You may receive notifications by email from lecturers in your courses, as well as general information about the programme and administration of Mastermath. You can request deactivation of your account at any time via contact@mastermath.nl.

We may use aggregated information to obtain statistics and make informed choices on the future development of the Mastermath programme.

Access to and sharing of data

Your name, email address and student number can only be viewed by lecturers of courses you are enrolled in. Final grades will be shared with your home university upon completion of a course. Your data is processed by third parties only when this is required, in accordance with privacy laws. Aggregated and anonymized information may be shared with policymakers from participating universities.

How long is personal data stored?

Your data is stored as long as you are enrolled in Mastermath courses. Your account and all associated data will be deleted at the latest two years after the end date of your last course.
